Can Tabs for Kids

William Floyd Elementary School is raising funds to fight childhood cancer this spring through a Can Tabs for Kids program that will benefit the Sunrise Fund at Stony Brook University Medical Center.

The project, which kicked off in February, requires students to collect aluminum tabs from soda and pet food cans and deposit them in collection bins.

The tabs are brought each week to Gershow Recycling in Medford, where they are weighed and recycled. Gershow is giving the school 55 cents per pound up to $10,000.
